You may think you know the UK but there are plenty of surprises yet to be found and a walking holiday is the best way to do it.

Wherever you live, don't let the cosy familiarity of the UK's cultural icons and famous landmarks deter you from exploring the rest of the country – ideally by foot!

These four nations are densely packed with variety. Away from Ben and Buckingham Palace, there are an enormous number of sights that most people, locals and visitors alike, have never heard of. And there's no better way to see it all than on a walking holiday following the countless miles of footpaths through landscapes that are always rich in tradition, varied in scenery and full of history.

Rolling, rural landscapes stretch away into the distance; a green-and-gold patchwork of farmland, criss-crossed by wildlife-filled hedgerows and fringed with deep-scented woodlands of oak, ash, beech and hazel. Further afield there are windswept moors, remote hills and valleys, and of course, a never-ending coastline, topped by cliffs and dotted with smugglers coves and long sandy beaches.

Here's our essential guide to the best walking holidays in the UK.
